But these isolated portions of the three States have everything in common. Their interests are one, and now they want to get together and form a State out of their wonderful inland empire.

There are nearly 15,000,000 acres of Idaho territory in the boundaries of the proposed new State. The proponents want the 45th degree of latitude, which now constitutes the northern boundary of Wyoming, adopted as the northern boundary of Idaho and the southern boundary of the proposed new State. This line will be extended to the 120th degree of longitude, which, in turn carried through to the British Columbia boundary, will form the boundary line between the States of Washington and Oregon and the proposed new State. It is planned, too, that the State of Oregon shall give that part of its territory lying east of the 120th degree of longitude and south of the 45th degree of latitude to the State of Idahe This territory amounts to approximately 17,000,000 acres.

Under the proposed boundaries of the several States they would have the following acreage: Washington, 26,000,000 acres; Oregon, 38,000,000 acres; Idaho, 55,000,000 acres, and the new State 37,-000,000 acres. Under the present status, Washington has 42,000,000 acres; Oregon, 61,000,000 acres, and Idaho 53,060,000. Washington would have to contribute 16,000,000 acres to the new State, Oregon 6,000,000 to it, and 17,000,000 to Idaho, and Idaho 15,000,000 to the new State.

With 37,000,000 acres, the new State would be larger than New York, Conecticut, and Rhode Island put together. Oregon would be called upon to give up a new State without the consent of its legislature. REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL

By HELEN ROWLAND.

One week of actual practice in love-making makes a man more expert than a knowledge of all the theories that ever could be invented by the most eminent board of education. Many a man lives with his wife simply because she has become a confirmed habit that he hasn't the courage to break away from. Marrying a widower is like trying to wear a hand-me-down garment; it requires real skill to get the creases out of his character put there by the other woman and to make him over to fit your disposition and harmonize with your ideas.

A man may not consider a woman immoral because she smokes eigarettes; but what he does consider her is far worse-and that's unkissable. If all the men who need good positions would marry all the women who hold them, they would not need to worry about feminine competition in business; besides, there is not a woman living who would not gladly exchange a typewriter for a sewing machine and a career for a cradle. When a woman ceases to quarrel with her husband because he stays out late evenings; he is always delighted.

During his career at Rust Hall, Prof. Gallagher has advanced the school. When he took charge there were but two de-partments, with thirty-eight students and nurses. He added the kindergarten and mission departments, and through his efforts they were brought to the state of perfection which they now enjoy.
